Happy Father's Day to All The Daddies!

June 19th, 2022 is a very special day! If mothers are the heart, fathers provide the soul. This month, Father's Day makes its annual appearance, and we are so excited to celebrate all of the dads out there! To the daddies, the fathers, the men who have decided to step up, we commend you. You are more than valued. A father's presence in a child's life is everything. Parenting isn't easy by a long shot, so when you are able to find your way and be the best parent you can be to your child or children, it deserves recognition. Sometimes a father's role is overshadowed and underrated within society but let this Father's Day be a reminder of how essential a dad is to every family dynamic.

Let your fathers and father figures know you see and appreciate them. Let them know that they matter. This can be shown by simply telling them you value them, taking them out to lunch or dinner, or gifting them with that thing they have been eyeing for a while but haven't gotten around to purchasing for whatever reason. Even after the day has passed, be sure to continue to let your fathers know that their presence isn't taken for granted. Let's continue to celebrate and uplift the fathers and men who have so graciously taken on the father's role long after Father's Day has become some distant memory. To the dads out there, take this time to rest and do whatever it is you feel like doing. We know you often carry the world on your shoulders, but know that it's okay to take a break, relax and kick your feet up if you choose to do so. Engage in some quality self-care rituals. Yes, men can have self-care routines too. Take care of you and surround yourself with loved ones who pour into you or make it a solo dolo mission if that's more your speed.

Happy Father's Day to you!

Rear-End Collisions Can Be Trickier Than They Appear

If you are hit from behind by another driver, whether at high speed or low speed, injury potential abounds.

What can be problematic about some rear-end collisions is that a person may not immediately feel pain or show any symptoms of bodily damage. It might be days, sometimes longer, before the effects are felt.

Whiplash injuries are prevalent in rear-end collisions. The body jerks forward upon impact, and the head and neck violently snap backward and then “whip” forward, damaging muscles, ligaments, connective tissues, and nerves.

Concussions also occur frequently. A concussion is more than a blow to the head that makes a person see stars; it’s a brain injury that has the potential to impair one’s quality of life well into the future and may have lifelong consequences.

In addition to shoulder injuries, lacerations, broken bones, and disk damage, victims may also experience tinnitus (ringing or buzzing in the ears), dizziness, and sleep disturbances.

Various factors can intensify the effects of a rear-end collision – a driver/passenger wasn’t wearing a seatbelt, their head was turned or tilted at the time of impact, their vehicle was a small car, and the seat did not have a proper (or any) head restraint.

If you’ve been the victim of a rear-end collision, promptly schedule a medical evaluation with your doctor. Insurance companies often scoff at low-speed rear-end collisions and the harm they cause and question the motives of anyone who’s not admitted to the hospital. Contact an experienced auto accident attorney to protect your rights.
